

Rolf Huber

Managing Director

"Local partners across the globe are vital to our success. Collaboration is the key to developing solutions that are truly effective."

Rolf Huber is Managing Director of the Board of Siemens Stiftung. Together with his board colleagues Dr. Nina Smidt and Klaus Grünfelder, he is responsible for the operative implementation of the goals defined by the foundation.

Siemens Stiftung promotes sustainable social development, which is crucially dependent on access to basic services, high-quality education, and an understanding of culture.

Within the Board of Siemens Stiftung, Rolf Huber is responsible for the working area development cooperation and the foundation`s communication. The goal of the working area development cooperation is to reduce existential supply deficits through technical and entrepreneurial approaches and to strengthen the necessary social structures.

Prior to joining Siemens Stiftung, Rolf Huber worked for Siemens AG since 1989. There, he has held various positions in the areas of press and public relations, as well as marketing and human resources development in the company's international communications departments. From 2009 to 2012, Rolf Huber resided in Johannesburg, South Africa, and was responsible for the company's CSR programs as well as relations with governments on the African continent. He is a member of the German government specialist commission on causes of displacement and is responsible for the Africa working group in the German Federal Foreign Office's Strategic Dialogue with foundations.

Rolf Huber completed his master's degree in American Studies, Political Science and Communications Science at the Ludwig Maximilian University in Munich and the University of North Carolina, USA.
